Rural Geographies in Transition

European Rural Geographies Conference

Rural areas in Europe are under increasing and intersecting pressures, but many of these areas seem to be resilient. The landscapes, the actors, the uses, the challenges, and the way in which the rural is produced and reproduced, they are all changing rapidly. This brings forward new research questions and new answers.

The focus of the Groningen conference is “Rural Geographies in Transition”. Within this focus the following guiding themes are identified:

Population developments
Governance and policies
Quality of life
Landscape transitions
Agricultural transformations

Socio-spatial Inequalities
Economic challenges
Smart villages
Rural entrepreneurship
Rural Housing

Abstracts of max. 250 words should be uploaded by December 20, 2019 the latest, and will be reviewed by the organisation. The date of acceptance will be in February 2020.
